

What is said is not necessarily what you hear
What you hear is not necessarily what you listen to
What you listen to is selected often by what you want to be said
The voice of one crying in the wilderness

Have you the faith to select more than what you want to hear

You are wonderful
You have the wisdom and courage to attempt to live out your faith
You are wonderful
You have the love of Christ Jesus within your life to guide you
You are wonderful
You have given great love in the past. You will give great love in the future
You are wonderful
Listen believe and act upon that beauty
And I am speaking about you

The voice of one crying in the wilderness

What is said is not necessarily what you hear
What you hear is not necessarily what you listen to
What you listen to is selected often by what you want to be said

You have obligations
There are those who depend upon you emotionally, they love you
You have obligations
Your body needs to be cared for and kept healthy
You have obligations
My sisters and brothers the poor need your help

You have obligations
Listen believe and act upon those obligations
And I am speaking about you
The voice of one crying in the wilderness

You are loved by God
You will die and all that will remain of you is love
You are loved by God
Your dignity expressed in the place waiting for you in eternity
You are loved by God
But you are not God and have human limitations
You are loved by God
Listen trust in that love and let go of the impossible, relax
I am speaking about you
The voice of one crying in the wilderness

What is said is not necessarily what you hear
What you hear is not necessarily what you listen to
What you listen to is selected often by what you want to be said

You are wonderful
True you have obligations
You are loved by God
Try to listen to more than what you want to hear
Try to hear the truth
Try then to have the humility of faith
And do what you can
It is enough.
The voice of one crying in the wilderness